Her father Rudy purchased the City Bakery, which became "Rudy's," where she worked wrapping bread early mornings before attending school and on the weekends, and continued working there until 1940. Isabel Agather, 85

Isabel Agather, 85, died Sunday, Nov. 15, 1998, at Prestige Assisted Living.

She was born Sept. 12, 1913, in Libby, to William F. and Blanche Brinton Kienitz. Her father William "Bill," one time Libby mayor and butcher, established the first movie theaters in Libby. Her mother, a teacher and graduate of Drake University, was the first woman principal of Old Central School in Libby.

She graduated from Libby High School, excelling in speech, drama and business. She went on to Eastern Washington College in Cheney, eventually graduating from Washington State College in Pullman in 1936, with a degree in business education.

In 1937, she married Alfons Agather of Kalispell. "Allo," as he was known, was employed at the J. Neils Lumber Co. in Libby, a company founded by his grandfather, Julius Neils. During these years she used her business background to manage the family movie theaters with her sister, Jean Neils. She also found pleasure in spending summers at Bull Lake with her six children, and seeing new places and meeting new people when traveling with her husband to lumbermen's conventions across the U.S. They particularly loved to dance.

When her husband retired in 1968, the two settled in Palm Springs, Calif., where they spent the winters, returning every summer to Bull Lake.

She was active in the Woman's Club of Palm Springs; the Daughters of the American Revolution; and Colonial Dames. She was very proud of her Brinton heritage.

At age 60, she delighted her husband by taking up tennis and quickly developed a wicked net game. After his death in 1978, she maintained their tradition of driving every spring to the cabin at Bull Lake where she was noted for hosting large family dinners, exploring back roads and picking huckleberries.

She will be remembered as independent and fun-loving. She rarely dwelled on the past but preferred to concentrate on "keeping up with the times." An avid reader of business journals, she continued to display a good deal of business acumen and successfully managed a portfolio of investments. She was an inveterate fan of professional sports.

When a massive stroke in 1990 curtailed most of her activities and drastically affected her speech and movement, she persisted in improving her capabilities with years of therapy. At age 82, she took up the computer and e-mail as a way to stay in contact with her children and grandchildren. Her family members laugh that, throughout it all, she never lost her passion for correct English, and never passed up the opportunity to point out grammatical errors.

"Ain't Misbehavin'" by Fats Waller was one of her favorite tunes. Her love for jazz, rhythm and blues, and big band music exemplified her strong spirit and great sense of humor, qualities that were to sustain her during her struggle with the devastating effects of a stroke at age 76 and the difficult road overcoming her new handicaps.

She was preceded in death by her parents and husband.

She is survived by her sister Jean Neils of Spokane; her four sons and their wives, Jay and Marjean of Lewiston, Idaho, Michael and Kathy of Mercer Island, Wash., Mark and Jean and Max and Linda of Kalispell; her two daughters and spouses, Andrea and Ray Haugen of Tucson, and Martha and Jeff Jordan of Mercer Island; her 14 beloved grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews.

Visitation will be from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday and 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. Thursday at Johnson Mortuary in Kalispell.

A funeral service will be held Thursday, at 2 p.m. at the Northridge Lutheran Church with the Rev. Dan Heskett officiating. Cremation will follow the services.

She attended grade school at Bigfork, and one year of high school at Flathead.

She married Al Arvidson in 1933, in Holt, and they settled less than a mile away from the family farm near Kehoe's Agate Shop. There they stayed until health forced them to move in 1988.

She was always busy. If she wasn't working around her own house, she was walking up the road to work in the family garden or knitting socks, mittens, caps, and afghans for children everywhere. She enjoyed visiting and cooking. She was famous for feeding teenage boys to the bursting point.

She always had cookies on hand and her kitchen was a special place for the small child, the ravenous teenager, or the hungry field worker. One of her favorite memories was cooking for the Forest Service at Swan Lake in the late 1940s.

After moving to the nursing home, she was unable to knit or read, but she continued to enjoy visits from children more than anything else. She never lost her strong spirit which pulled her through numerous physical problems.
